

Saskatoon Potable Water Supply System – North (SAPO-N)
Precautionary Drinking Water Advisory (PDWA)
Effective October 18th to 21st

Attention: Saskatoon North Potable Water Supply Customers

SaskWater has scheduled maintenance work on its SAPO-N System that will result in a service interruption for all SaskWater customers on the system. The service interruption is expected to last approximately 12 to 16 hours which will result in a PDWA during the subsequent water testing period. Customers are also advised to ensure that their on-site storage facilities are topped up prior to the shutdown. As swabbing will be required on certain sections of the pipeline, customers on these sections will be contacted by local SaskWater staff to discuss the additional precautions that will be taken to ensure none of the resulting turbid water is drawn into their private systems.

The service interruption will commence at approximately 7am on Tuesday, October 18th and service is expected to be restored by 11pm the same day.

The Precautionary Drinking Water Advisory will be issued by the Water Security Agency and will remain in place until the water sample results have been received back from the lab confirming that the water quality once again meets the provincial regulatory standards. The above noted PDWA timeline is estimated and SaskWater will be notifying its customers once the PDWA has formally been rescinded.
